Paper Guidelines

The review and selection process for submissions is designed to identify papers that break new ground and provide substantial support for their results and conclusions as significant contributions to the field. Submissions will be selected that represent a major advancement in the subject of the track to which they are submitted. Authors of submissions with a more limited contribution or scope and nature of work may be asked to revise their submissions into a more succinct camera-ready format; e.g., a short paper, workshop, industry practice report, fast abstract, or poster.

Submission

Detailed instructions for electronic paper submission, panel and workshop proposals, fast abstracts, poster papers, doctoral symposium, and the review process are available at www.compsac.org.

About COMPSAC

COMPSAC is the IEEE Signature Conference on Computers, Software, and Applications. It is one of the major international forums for academia, industry, and government to discuss research results, advancements, and future trends in computer, software technology, and applications. The technical program includes keynote addresses, research papers, industrial case studies, panel discussions, fast abstracts, doctoral symposium, poster sessions, and a number of workshops and tutorials on emerging important topics.

COMPSAC 2014 Theme

The theme of the 38th COMPSAC conference is The Integration of Heterogeneous and Mobile Services in Smart Environments. The emergence and increasing importance of digital society, cyber-physical systems, and semantic, pervasive, and mobile computing are expanding the role of software and applications in smart environments. Associated with these paradigms are instruments, sensors, and a multitude of applications that generate and require analysis of massive volumes of diverse, heterogeneous, complex, and distributed data. The potential of the emerging electric smart grid motivates developing systems designed with smart grid capabilities foremost in mind. The design of such intelligent systems is challenged by the complexity of the domains in which they are deployed. Knowledge, tools, practices, and infrastructures related to software and data have begun to evolve to cover this expanding sphere, while addressing grand challenges brought about by the complexities and uncertainties of the physical world and the heterogeneity of interconnected services and devices. Beyond the core emphasis areas of the conference, COMPSAC 2014 will provide additional tracks, special sessions, panels, and keynotes to facilitate discourse on and deepen the understanding of these challenges by furthering the fundamental contributions needed for advances in software and breakthroughs in big data analytics.

Message from the Standing Committee Chair

July, 2014

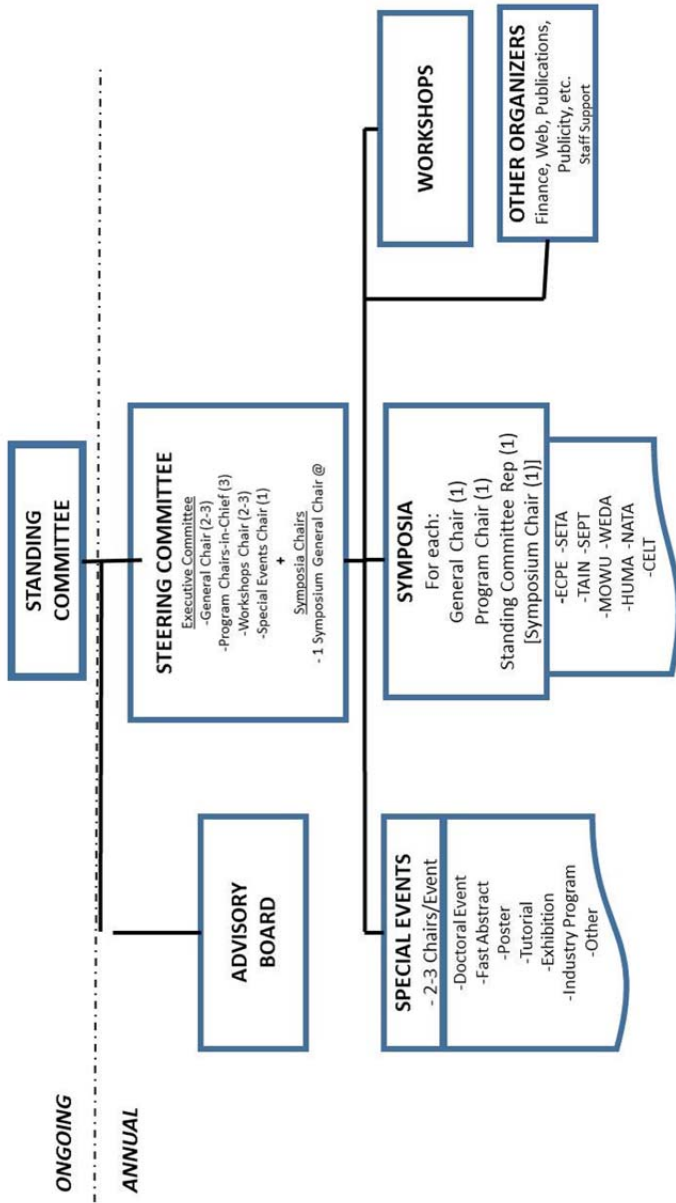

Welcome to the 38th edition of this long-standing IEEE Annual International Computer Software and Applications Conference (COMPSAC), officially designated as the IEEE signature conference on computers, software and applications since 2006. In this round during the development of 2014 program we have been effectively engaging Computer Society staff organization and received significant support from their offices. We migrated the COMPSAC website to www.computer.org under the able management of the Society's IT staff. In addition, we also received support from Society's offices representing conference management, marketing, publications, and products and services professionals. These changes are partly due to heritage as COMPSAC started in 1977 as the Society's flagship conference, outside the realm of any technical segments (technical committees or technical councils), and partly by design so that we will continue the transformation of COMPSAC to be ultimately embraced by the Board of Governors and the Executive Committee as an integral component in the current organizational structure.

I would like to first acknowledge the fine efforts of Bruce McMillin, as the 2014 Steering Committee Chair, who gracefully handled a significant portion of top-level oversight function that used to fall largely on my own shoulder. It is great to finally have someone who would step up and share the load. Bruce shepherd the 2014 initiative of building the core for the IEEE Cloud Computing Congress and the Smart Grid Congress as some of you may have noticed. The 2014 General Chairs Tiberiu Seculeanu and John Walz, have worked for almost two years to ensure this year's event a great success. Three Program Chairs, Ali Hurson, Cristina Seculeanu and Kenichi Yoshida, continued our heritage to have developed a superior technical program. Mihail Matskin and Yasuo Okabe succeeded in cultivating a fine collection of workshops to cover many important, emerging technical subjects. Laurel Tweed continued her outstanding effort to sustain many critical support functions, in particular the conference web. I cannot be exhaustive in expressing my gratitude to many other diligent organizers but each piece of their work is key to the success of this event. Finally, Silvia Ceballos, our primary staff support assigned by the Society, handled many daunting tasking for the volunteers, always with a great smile. It has been a great testimonial, again, of the wonderful partnership between professional staff and volunteers that ties the Computer Society together.

Beginning today, more transformation of COMPSAC will take place. Let me briefly explain what will happen. See attached new organization chart. Basically the super-track structure phased in 2014 will be elevated to the symposia structure, although they will function similarly as far as paper submissions/selections are concerned. That is, COMPSAC will continue to be one conference with one integrated process to develop the annual technical program. The major changes to come in 2015 include the following:

There will be a Symposium Standing Chair to lead and shepherd the development of a particular technical committee represented by a symposium, by contributing a technical vision and long-range planning skills. For a symposium, a Symposium Chair can be appointed to support Standing Chair's function. Each year the Standing Chair for a particular symposium recruit a symposium general chair and a symposium program chair to develop the next edition of symposium program as an integral part of the whole COMPSAC. Symposium program chairs will endeavor under the guidance of the main conference program chairs (i.e. program chairs-in-chief) to ensure overall process consistency, program quality and professional integrity. There will be still only one team of key organizers to help coordinate workshops, posters, panels, student sessions, industry contacts, etc. while taking into account of symposium/community's inputs to optimize collective performance across all communities.

For now, I sincerely hope that you all enjoy this "Västerås Edition" of COMPSAC.

COMPSAC 2014

Message from the General Chairs

On behalf of COMPSAC 2014 organization we would like to welcome you to the 38th Annual IEEE International Computers, Software, and Applications Conference (COMPSAC 2014), held in Västerås, Sweden, July 21-25, 2014.

The theme of the 38th COMPSAC conference is The Integration of Heterogeneous and Mobile Services in Smart Environments. The emergence and increasing importance of digital society, cyber-physical systems, and semantic, pervasive, and mobile computing are expanding the role of software and applications in smart environments.

COMPSAC, first held in Chicago in 1977, continues as the IEEE Computer Society Signature Conference on Computers, Software, and Applications. It is one of the major international forums for academia, industry, and government to discuss research results, advancements and future trends in computer and software technologies and applications. The technical program includes keynote addresses, research papers, industrial case studies, panel discussions, fast abstracts, doctoral symposium, poster sessions, tutorials, industry tracks, and workshops on emerging important topics.

COMPSAC is a premier global forum for crosscutting computing research, practice and education, having a long and established history with the Computer Society, and a strong reputation for exceptional quality as both (a) a generator of technical content and discussion, and (b) a well-planned, well-organized, well-attended, and well-managed event.

Several international societies, IPSJ, KISE, and CCF, and several Computer Society special technical communities support the conference technical program. This has resulted in attracting over 20 workshops, including the Cloud Congress and Smart Grid Congress, along with five keynote speakers and three plenary panelists to provide an international perspective on the conference theme, bringing together funding agency and industry representatives from across the globe to address their vision for software beyond the digital society.

COMPSAC received key support the local team at Mälardalen University and generous support from our sponsoring patrons, ABB and the city of Västerås.

We would like to thank Carl Chang, Chair of the Standing Committee of COMPSAC and Bruce McMillin, Chair of Steering Committee, for their enthusiastic contributions to the organizing team. Special thanks are extended to the Technical Program co-chairs, Ali Hurson, Cristina Seceleanu, and Kenichi Yoshida, as they selected and motivated over 160 Program Committee members to build this outstanding quality program.

Message from the Program Co-chairs

A warm welcome to COMPSAC 2014, the 38th Annual International Computers, Software and Applications Conference, this year held in Västerås, Sweden, and organized around the theme of “The Integration of Heterogeneous and Mobile Services in Smart Environments”. Selecting this theme is inspired by the recognition of the emergence and increasing heterogeneity of different aspects of computing ranging from hardware/architecture platforms to software/application domains. Along with the increase in heterogeneity of hardware, architectural platforms, communication medium, data representation, software techniques, and application domains comes the higher demand for more computational power mainly due to the increase in data availability in newly developed application domains. Nowadays, terms such as “cloud computing”, “big data analytics”, “pervasive computing”, and “smart computing” are becoming part of the usual vocabulary of application users. These changes require a new and holistic approach to computing. Knowledge, tools, practices, and infrastructures have begun to evolve to cover this heterogeneity, while addressing grand challenges brought about by the complexities and uncertainties of the physical world and the massive scale of the cyber infrastructure and the data it produces and requires. Addressing these challenges and the discovery of solutions to meet such challenges were the driving force behind organizing COMPSAC 2014.

This year, the main conference (not including workshops) received 209 full submissions to 7 tracks. Following the tradition of past COMPSAC conferences, each submission underwent a rigorous double-blind review process and was discussed by the program and track chairs during the PC meeting, which took place in Los Angeles, in March 2013. As the result of the process, we accepted 21.5% of the submissions as regular papers and 12.5% of the submissions as short papers for inclusion into this year’s COMPSAC proceedings, published by IEEE CS.

The success of a complex conference like COMPSAC always depends on the quality of submitted papers, the expertise of the participating program committee members, reviewers, and the engagement of all colleagues involved in the organization of the conference. Therefore, we would like to take this opportunity to thank the authors, who submitted their valuable research results to the conference, the track chairs, who diligently oversaw the paper review process, and the members of the Program Committee and external reviewers whose dedicated and expert review is the foundation of the rich program assembled for COMPSAC 2014. We also thank all keynote speakers and panelists for further enriching the conference program with their insights. This year’s COMPSAC is composed of 20 regular sessions, 4 keynote speeches, 3 panels, a PhD forum/poster session, a fast abstract session, and an industrial session.

We deeply appreciate the invaluable help of Carl Chang, Standing Committee Chair of COMPSAC who is truly the backbone of the conference. Special thanks are extended to Bruce McMillin (Steering Committee Chair), and John Walz and Tiberiu Seceleanu (General Co-chairs of COMPSAC 2014) for their ongoing support and contributions. We wish to especially thank Laurel Tweed for her work in hosting and maintaining the COMPSAC 2014 web site and conference management system, as well as Séverine Sentilles and Susanne Fronnå for their tremendous job on local conference organization.

Message from the Workshops Chairs

It is our pleasure to welcome all you to the workshops sessions of the 38th IEEE International Computer Software and Application Conference, COMPSAC 2014, which is held in Västerås, Sweden.

This year conference includes 23 workshops covering different aspects of developing computer software and applications. The workshops nicely complement the main conference and they together create an exciting scientific program for 5 days. According to the COMPSAC tradition workshops are held during the first (July 21) and during the last (July 25) days of the conference.

Workshops present a nice place for exchange of ideas and results in different aspects of computer software and applications including software testing, security, privacy and trust, software interoperability and reuse, social and user oriented aspects of software systems and social networks, adaptive systems, middleware architecture, risk management, big data and internet of things, semantics, modelling, verification and service oriented computing. Several workshops are focused towards industrial applications and experience, such as, medical computing, embedded systems design and consumer devices. All these topics correlate well with the topics of the main conference and this creates a possibilities for participant to get a deep and up-to-date overview of the field.

This year we received a very large number of papers submitted to the workshops. Only 100? of them were selected for presentation. We thank all authors submitted papers to the workshops for their support of the conference. Selection process was carefully carried by the workshop organizers. We would like thank organizers of all workshops and the members of workshops PCs for their efforts and an excellent job. We also would like thank all people involved into organizing the COMPSAC 2014 and steering committees for their help.

We hope that participants of the COMPSAC 2014 will enjoy nice presentations and discussions as well as an inspiring atmosphere of the event.
